

MAGNIFICENT

Memorial in Every Respect Will Be Dublin's Monument to Parnell.

St. Gaudens, American Sculptor, Prepares Figure of Noted Leader.

Irish Countries and Provinces Represented and Shamrock Seen.

FACIAL RESEMBLANCE IS PERFECT

The monument to the late Charles Stewart Parnell, in process of erection in Dublin, gives promise of being a magnificent memorial in every respect. The figure of Parnell, designed by the renowned sculptor, Augustus St. Gaudens, of New York, is now in Italy to be cast in bronze, and the foundation work of the structure is well under way. The contract for the shaft, which is to be very imposing and elaborate, has not yet been let, but tenders of noted Irish firms are under consideration, and the work will soon be commenced. In general the design for the monument consists of a slightly tapering triangular shaft standing on a circular platform, which will be twenty-five feet in diameter. The width at the base of the shaft will be thirteen feet, and the total height from the ground to the apex of the tripod that will surmount the column will be sixty-five feet.

In the pavement of the circular platform is represented, in green granite, a large shamrock, within which is symmetrically placed, the triangular shaft. Around the carved base the counties and provinces of Ireland are represented—the counties by thirty-two bronze panels or tablets, surrounded by an inlaid bronze ornament of shamrocks, and the provinces by four bronze laurel wreaths on the face of the pedestal, which carries the statue of Mr. Parnell. On the angles of the base are inserted large bronze torches. Since the figure of Mr. Parnell is the most important part of the monument, it was artistically necessary that the shaft should form such a background as would least detract the eye of the observer from the statue itself, and the plain surface against which the statue will be outlined on the proposed form of shaft will attain the desired end in a striking manner.

The arrangement perfected by Mr. St. Gaudens is this: In front of the shaft, on an extension of the base, as a pedestal, will stand the figure of Parnell. This figure is eight feet in height, and the attitude of one arm attracts attention. The right hand is extended, as if Parnell were addressing an audience, and the left hand holds a scroll. The facial resemblance is perfect, and great care has been taken to render all the minor details faithful to the surroundings of the Irish chieftain's life. Just over the head of the figure a large harp is graven in the shaft, with the following extract from Parnell's historic speech, delivered at Cork on the 21st day of January, 1885:

"No man has the right to fix the boundary of the march of a nation. No man has the right to say: 'Thus far shalt thou go and no further.' We have never attempted to fix the no plus ultra to the progress of Ireland's nationhood, and we never shall."

Near the top of the triangular shaft, in large bronze lettering, is the word "Parnell," and underneath, in Irish characters, the sentence: "God prosper Erin and her children." The top of the column bears an excellently carved final, surmounted by an immense bronze tripod, flamboyant.

Satisfactory arrangements have been made with the Dublin Tramway Company so that its roadway near the Rotunda, opposite which structure the monument is to stand, will be changed to suit the dimensions of the base of this grand memorial to the uncrowned king of Ireland.

LAST CALL.

Michael Burke Was the Oldest Resident of Buckeye State.

Michael Burke, Ohio's oldest resident, died during Tuesday night at Newark at the residence of his son Patrick, aged 106 years. Death was due to a horse's kick sustained five weeks ago. Burke was never sick in his long life. He was perfectly built, his sight and hearing was unimpaired, and his appearance was that of a man of seventy. Until recently the deceased, who was formerly a railroad contractor, lived in Hannibal, Mo., and Ashland, Ky. He was born in Ireland, but came to America in 1829. Upon his arrival at Newark last year he walked a half mile to his son's residence, and issued a challenge to wrestle any hundred-year-old man in town.

CHAPEL COSTS $300,000.

The altars for Our Lady chapel in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, will soon be laid. The marble floor is almost laid and the chapel will be ready about Christmas. It will cost $300,000 and will be one of the most beautiful of its kind in the United States. The late Eugene Kelly left a legacy of $250,000 for Our Lady chapel, his heirs, realizing that the amount would be inadequate, increased it to $375,000, and later agreed to give an additional $200,000. The Cathedral Trustees found that the joining of a Lady chapel to the rear of the Cathedral necessitated alterations in the main structure and the building of a new heating and ventilating plant. This called for an appropriation of $300,000. To the casual observer the edifice does not reveal the great expense required to carry it to the present state. A close inspection, however, will show that the structure is in delicate thirteenth century Gothic style and differs in architecture considerably from the main Cathedral which is Gothic of a later period. The material is of selected white marble and the finials, gargoyles and other ornaments are carved in a highly artistic manner. The fineness of the marbles used shows especially in the walls of the interior.

RACE IS OVER.

Everything Indicates Election of Swagor Sherley to Congress.

In all parts of the city during the past week enthusiastic assemblages of men have greeted Congressman Swagor Sherley, who will close his campaign tonight with a speech at Jeffersontown. The audiences that have heard him were intelligent and representative, and from the general expression there can be no doubt but that he will be elected by an overwhelming majority. In fact it is conceded that the race is over, and all that remains is for Democrats to go to the polls on Tuesday and cast their ballots.

There are many who look for a landslide in this election, believing the next House will be Democratic, in which the case the return of Mr. Sherley would mean much for this city and State. His record in Congress has been an enviable one, and his past experience and influence will place him in a position for service that is almost incalculable. At the meetings Mr. Sherley declared strongly for internal improvements and said he was in favor of spending less on the navy and more on the rivers and harbors of the country, and was loudly applauded therefor. He said he was for the improvement of the Ohio river and would be for it for all time to come.

This is the kind of a man Louisville wants to represent in Congress, and every voter who would have this city prosper will vote for him. Honest and fearless, just and wise, it is our hope that we will continue to have the benefit of his services.

SHOULD PLEASE.

Splendid Programme Division 3 Will Present Monday Night.

Monday night Division 3, A. O. H., will entertain its friends at the hall in the Hopkins Theater building, and the programme arranged is one of unusual merit. The aim of Chairman Hession and his colleagues has been to provide such an evening as will be instructive and enjoyable, and there is no doubt that their efforts will be appreciated by the fine audience expected. Judge Matt O'Doherty will deliver the principal address, and in short talks following State President George Butler, County President Murphy and Miss Mary Sheridan will speak for the order and auxiliary. John Flynn will entertain in his inimitable style, and Tom Dolan will introduce a new set of moving pictures that will be interesting. Miss Mary Corcoran and Thomas Keenan, Jr., have consented to render vocal solos, and Messrs. Thomas Clines, Michael McGuire and James Carroll will be heard in their best recitations. At the conclusion of this excellent programme refreshments will be served and cigars passed when all are ready to leave. This entertainment is complimentary to the members of the order, their friends and is in line with the suggestion of the national convention for the social and educational betterment of the standing of the grand old order. All the divisions have been invited and should be well represented. President T. J. Welsh will close the meeting.

THE APPIAN WAY.

A new portion of the Appian Way, the old Roman thoroughfare leading from Rome to Brundisium, the modern Brindisi, has just been discovered while workmen were doing some excavations near Benevento. The discovered portion of the ancient road was found still paved in the same way as the starting point of the road in the Roman Forum. It is now proposed to continue the diggings so as to bring to light as much as possible of the great Roman highway.

SPENT MERRY NIGHT.

Company C of the Uniform Rank of the Catholic Knights of America had a jolly time last Friday night at the home of Lieut. Ben Hand on East Chestnut street. There was a large gathering of friends of the company, and after a number of military talks all were invited to partake of a homelike feast, to which ample justice was done, after which a pleasant hour was spent in song and story.

REDMOND

Delivers a Stirring Address to Nationalists of Ulster at Coalisland.

Ireland's Greatest Weapon Is an Independent Party in Parliament.

Spirit of Independence and Toleration Spreading in the North.

WARNS COUNTRY AGAINST DANGER

On Sunday, October 29, a monster meeting was held at Coal Island, at which representatives from every county in Ulster gathered to greet John Redmond, the Irish leader, whose address aroused the greatest enthusiasm. After the adoption of resolutions treating home rule, the Irish party, town tenants, revival of the Irish language, etc., the speaker was received with cheers and said:

I am glad that what I may call the commencement of the redensation of the home rule movement it has been my good fortune to meet this great gathering of the men north of the Boyne. For twenty years past, or more, the name of Ulster has been grossly calumniated. It has been represented simply as the home of religious bigotry and anti-Irish prejudice. I assert here today that in this great gathering today, and the great majority of the population of Ulster is in favor of full religious toleration and freedom of every creed and in favor of home rule for Ireland. And, fellow-countrymen, let me say, so far as what I call today the minority in Ulster is concerned, that it should be our greatest duty to go to any length short of surrender of principle to disarm their hostility and to remove their suspicions. I admit fully that the minority in Ulster is rich and influential. I admit it has been powerful enough to stand between Ireland and home rule, but its power is waning. I know of course that its power is waning. I believe its power today is less than ever it has been. I am convinced that this fight is to be fought out with that minority that they will never again be able to thwart home rule. But, fellow-countrymen, while I am convinced that we can, if we are put to it, win home rule in spite of the minority—I confess to you that I don't want home rule to come in the garb of a bitter and humiliating defeat for any intelligent and honest section of my countrymen. I know of course that there is one section of the minority opposed to us that has no title to the name of either honest or intelligent—a section that it is impossible and hopeless to seek to conciliate or placate, a section that will, I believe, to the bitter end continue their policy of hatred and intolerance. I am not speaking of them after all in reality. They are only a handful even of the Protestants of Ulster and I fear that they must be overborne by the strong hand; but I am speaking of the overwhelming majority of those who are ranked today as our opponents in Ulster. For my part, I say here that of the overwhelming majority of these men I believe they are honest and, according to their own sense of the word, patriotic. I believe that they are in large numbers honestly afraid to trust their property and their religious interests to their fellow-countrymen. Now, over those men I say today, if I can avoid it, I want no party triumph, but I want to influence their intelligence. I want to allay their suspicions, and I want to soften their hearts; and therefore so long as it is possible for me to do so, even against hope, I will reach to them the doctrine of conciliation. There is, thank God, a movement today amongst these men—we see it in Belfast, and we see it in all the agricultural constituencies almost in Ulster—a movement which shows that the sentiment of Protestant Ulster is no longer properly represented by the ignorant, intolerant and irreconcilable section which so long has spoken for Ulster, and that a spirit of toleration and independence is spreading. Let us Nationalists respond to that spirit. I say here today there are no lengths, short of the abandonment of the principles which you and I hold, to which I would not go to win the confidence of these men, and not have them lost to Ireland. There are no safeguards which I would object to in a home rule bill tomorrow to satisfy the fears which these men entertain about their religious interests, and I say here today the best Irishman who does his best today by preaching toleration and conciliation to these men to bring all the sons of gallant Ulster into line with the people all over Ireland. But, fellow-countrymen, while preaching these doctrines we must be very careful not to surrender any single one of our weapons. Until we have won home rule for Ireland, believe me, Ireland's greatest weapon is an independent party in Parliament. These are both parts of the same weapon. A party without an organized country behind it is like an arrow without a bow, and an organized country without a party is like a bow without an arrow. Let us therefore tolerate nothing, in whatever guise it may come, which threatens to destroy, or even to weaken, that weapon. You may, of course, know, destroy that weapon yourselves by your dissensions or by your apathy, and I regret to say, that there are some men in Ireland today whose policy that seems to be. They are very few in number, no doubt, and there are none of them in Ulster. I am convinced that the plain common sense of the Irish people will overwhelm them. Fellow-countrymen, the nationalist movement may be destroyed in another way. Ireland, one of these days, may be offered what is sometimes called administrative reform, and sometimes called administrative home rule, put before them in such a form as to make the continuance of the nationalist movement difficult or impossible, and for all we know this may be actually part of the plan of some of the architects of the scheme themselves. Now I warn the country against this danger. If we were to accept any such scheme, the nationalist movement would fall to the ground, and we would be in the position in which Ireland was when Gratian agreed to the disbandment of the Irish volunteers. We should have thrown away our weapon, and in my belief genuine home rule would disappear for this, and perhaps for the next generation, and the word would be this paraphrase of an old saying well known in Ulster, "Put your trust in no British Government and keep your powder dry." Preserve your unity, maintain your organization, support your party; do not surrender one single weapon that you have won by long struggle and sacrifices of the last twenty-five years, and then, whether the Liberal Government does its duty and fulfills its pledges, or whether it does not, you can face the future with calmness and confidence.

RECENT DEATHS.

The funerals of Miss Johanna Tierney, sister of Michael J. Tierney, of this city, and John Tierney, of St. Louis, took place Sunday afternoon from the Cathedral. Deceased was sixty-five years old and had been ill for several weeks of a complication of diseases incident to her age.

Mrs. Mary Glean, an aged member of St. Patrick's parish, died Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ann Zorn, 1335 Bank street. She had lived here for many years and was known for her numerous deeds of kindness to her neighbors and her willingness to assist where there was illness or distress. The funeral took place yesterday morning with a requiem mass at St. Patrick's.

The funeral of Joseph Belling, whose death occurred Sunday evening, resulting from shock that followed the accidental fracture of his hip and other complications, was largely attended Tuesday morning at St. Boniface church. Deceased was the brother of Henry and Herman Belling, with the Western Union, and was well known and highly esteemed in the East End. He was thirty-one years old and lived with his parents at Jackson and Madison streets.

Miss Jessie Westfall, daughter of Capt. Westfall, Superintendent of the House of Correction, died Sunday at the family residence after a protracted illness of a complication of diseases. Miss Westfall was widely known for her lovely disposition and activity as a Christian charity worker, and the news of her death was received everywhere with expressions of grief. The funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Helen's church, and a long cortege of mourning friends followed the remains to St. Louis cemetery.

Mrs. Theresa Battenman, widow of the late Joseph Battenman, succumbed Monday to an attack of typhoid pneumonia. She had attained a ripe old age and that lessened her chances for recovery. Mrs. Battenman had lived here many years and was held in the highest esteem by those who knew her. Eight children, Misses Margaret, Lulu and Theresa Battenman, Mrs. William Brooker, Mrs. Henry Siebel and Martin, Edward and Charles Battenman, survive her. The funeral took place yesterday morning from St. Louis Bertrand church.

Gloom was cast over St. Mary Magdalene's parish when word was spread Sunday morning that Mrs. Waller, wife of the late Herman Waller and mother of Miss Wilhelm and Adolph Waller, was no more. For some time she had been in failing health and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Waller was the daughter of William Springer, for years in the mineral water business here, and was forty-nine years old. She was widely known for her charitable work among the poor and the several charity organizations. Her going leaves an aching void, not only in the happy family circle, but throughout the city, as there were none who knew her but liked her. The funeral services were held Monday morning when Rev. Father William Gausepohl celebrated the solemn high mass of requiem and paid a tender tribute to the life and character of the deceased, by whose death the church had sustained a distinct loss.

GALVESTON'S CELEBRATION.

Next April will mark the sixtieth anniversary of the establishment of the Diocese of Galveston and the twenty-fifth of the consecration of the late Rev. Bishop Gallagher. In honor of the double jubilee, the Cathedral will be improved by the erection of a handsome marble altar, filling the floor of the aisles and sanctuary, stuccoing the exterior of the edifice, installing a number of memorial windows and adding an entire new set of pews. It is expected that the generosity of the parishioners will enable these improvements to be made without incurring a debt upon the property.

CUT OUT.

Mobile Irish-Americans and Hibernians Suppress Disgracing Burlesque.

Manager Tannenbaum Cancels Engagement of "Finnigan's Ball" Company.

Posters Which Were Unreasonable and Objectionable Plastered Over.

EXAMPLE FOR OTHERS TO FOLLOW

The people of Mobile, Ala., last week took a hard full out of the stage Irishman, and in a manner that might be successfully followed in other cities. Barred from the better class of theaters is a bunch of barnstormers traveling through the South under the title of the "Finnigan Ball Company." This show was booked to appear in the Mobile Theater last Friday night, and the bill boards of the city were covered with posters burlesquing the Irish race. Prompt action was taken by the Ancient Order of Hibernians and prominent citizens, who were backed by the Mayor and city government, with the result that the posters were plastered over and Manager Tannenbaum refused the "company" the use of his theater. Both papers of the city have accounts of the affair as follows:

Mayor Patrick J. Lyons and two other prominent Irish-American citizens of this city, as a committee of three from the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Mobile, called upon Manager Jake Tannenbaum of the Mobile Theater yesterday afternoon and raised objection not only to the posters advertising "Finnigan's Ball," billed to appear at the Mobile Theater Friday night and night, but to the performance itself. They claimed that the show brought the Irish race into ridicule and that the bill boards were offensive for the reason that in their opinion there are people who accept the exaggerated stage Irishman as an accurate type. Mr. Tannenbaum set himself right with the Hibernians by assuring the committee that he would not permit his theater to be used as a vehicle for criticizing any nationality. When he made the date for the company he did so on the assurance that the team would be changed on account of the criticisms the company received last season, but he has learned in the last few hours that the team is the same. He wired the company, which played at Montgomery last night, not to fill the engagement in this city. The manager of the company quickly acted back that there was absolutely nothing objectionable in the show and it would fill the contract with the Mobile theater. Getting no relief from this source, Mr. Tannenbaum wired Mr. Mack, the owner of the show, at Galveston, asking him not to send the show to Mobile on account of the objection of the Irish people. He expects to receive a reply this afternoon. The objectionable posters have been covered.

"Something Done Every Minute" and other posters advertising "Finnigan's Ball," a theatrical company which was booked to appear at the Mobile Theater Friday night, and which depicted sons of Erin in all manner of antics, were plastered over with date lines this morning, the majority of the features of alleged Irishmen being hid from view. Covering the posters, which were on all the bill boards of the city, was the result of exceptions taken by a large number of prominent Mobilians of Irish descent who called upon Manager Tannenbaum last night and stated their grievances. They told Col. Tannenbaum that there were dozens depicted upon the posters which were unreasonable and objectionable. Manager Tannenbaum listened to the gentlemen, and in his usual courteous manner told them that if there was anything in the posters the least objectionable he would have them covered up. The order went forth this morning, and his word was kept. The objectionable part of the posters, particularly one which depicted an imaginary scene on Broadway, New York, which included a representative of nearly every nationality, received attention. This poster gave forth the impression that something was doing every minute, and the Irish policeman was real busy. The "Finnigan's Ball" company is said to have among its members two who are would-be Irish comedians. They are rank, it is said, but the representatives of the company told Manager Tannenbaum, so the information goes, that they would be changed before coming to Mobile. In return, Manager Tannenbaum told the representatives that if they were not changed he would cancel the company, as he did not want any barnstormers at his house. Later it was said that the company might cancel their Mobile engagement.

LAID TO REST.

Many mourning friends paid the last tribute of respect to the memory of Mrs. Margaret Perry, wife of Prof. James Perry, at her funeral, which took place from St. Louis Bertrand church, of which she was for many years a most devoted member. Mrs. Perry was born in Limerick, Ireland, in 1839, and was a daughter of Anthony Quinn, who was at one time head of the philosophical department of Queen's College in Cork. She was a well known pianist and organist, and received her early training in Cork, where her father placed her in charge of several of the famous teachers of that city. Her ability as a musician was well recognized among her large circle of friends in Louisville, where on frequent occasions she was the pianist of prominent Catholic choruses. She was married to Prof. Perry in New York City in 1865, and was the mother of eleven children, eight of whom survive her as follows: James B. Perry, William A. Perry, George A. Perry, the Misses Angela, Rose and Josephine Perry, Mrs. J. W. Sweeney and Mrs. Charles Hammerstein.

AWARD OF PRIZES.

Mackin Council's Fall Festival Was Every Way a Success.

The members of Mackin Council are jubilant over the success of their fall festival and on all sides are singing the praises of President Ruddy, Chairman James Shelley and the committees and ladies who rendered invaluable assistance. Treasures of Ton Clines announced that the net proceeds will not fall under $2,000. Mackin's two halls were crowded nightly and all went away pleased with the treatment they received. The contest between the ladies was decided Friday night, the first prize going to Miss Florence Kunst, who had a tremendous lead. Miss Mary Glenn, Miss Lorraine Flannery, Jennie Donnelly, Mrs. Mary Brader and Miss Hattie Hoffman finished in the order named and were awarded their prizes in a happy manner by Messrs. Ruddy, Kioffer, Shelly, Sand, Clines and Higgins. The crowd was so great Saturday night that the award of prizes in the combination book had to be postponed till Monday, when the following proved to be the lucky winners: Handsome rocker, Mrs. E. L. Longdon; center table, J. Diehl; brasses, J. Kioffer, Fred Frank; two years' subscription to Kentucky Irish American, William T. Bannan; chiffonier, $25. Frank Kelly; parlor lamp, Ben Schieban; mantel clock, Joseph Beckenwald; lead of coal, Miss Elizabeth Hawkins; silver, $25 clock, Miss Florence Kunst; winner of the $400 piano, first prize in the ticket-selling contest, $15 skirt, Barney Flynn—Mrs. Flynn will get it; gent's fancy vest or trousers, D. T. Neal; nightgown, M. J. Dugan; gent's suit, $30, M. J. Bannan; sideboard, $50, George W. Hendrix; brasses, bed, $20, Lillian Bhueingie; Indianapolis, piano, $300, Miss Mary Glenn, winner second prize, diamond ring, in ticket selling contest.

COMMENDS CATHOLICS.

Utterances of Rev. Dr. Powell in Sermon at Macauley's Theater.

The Rev. E. L. Powell, pastor of the First Christian church of this city, in a sermon at Macauley's Theater last Sunday, gave utterance to some strong convictions on the divorce question and commended the Catholic church for its consistency.

Deplored the rapid growth in Kentucky of what he called the divorce evil. Dr. Powell attacked in vigorous language the growing public sentiment in favor of the remarriage of divorcees. "Shame on that type of Americanism," he said. "I believe that the righteous sword of the public should be felt in this matter as a very whip of steel. To think that this state of affairs should exist in Kentucky—Kentucky, the home of chivalry, priding herself on her splendid traditions, her magnificent ideals, her glorious manhood and refined womanhood. May God have mercy upon our sons. He it said to the honor of the Roman Catholic church that it has consistently safeguarded the marriage institution. It is unquestionably true that with but few exceptions it has stood as a stone wall against marital infidelity. Other churches recently have taken up the question seriously. Perhaps the Episcopal church has been next in its emphasis of the inviolability of the marriage bond. I believe the time has come when the ministers of all churches should decline to remarry divorcees, save on the grounds mentioned by our Lord. I admit that I have remarried them on other than New Testament grounds, but I feel now as if I should be guilty of dishonor to Him if I were to do such a thing."

FATHER OBRECHT COMING.

The Right Rev. Edmund M. Obrecht, abbot of Cethsemane, who has been in South Africa and Europe for nearly a year, will return to this city some time next week on his way to the abbey in Nelson county. Abbot Obrecht has been inspecting the monasteries of his order in South Africa by order of the authorities in Rome. He has made his report to the Holy See and will now resume his duties in Nelson county.

JUDGE MCCANN BETTER.

Judge John McCann has for several days been unable to preside in the Police Court. For some time past the Judge has been complaining, and the first of the week he was taken ill and confined to his residence on Sixth street. His condition has somewhat improved, and he may be able to return to the bench today or Monday.

JUDGE HAGER.

Kentuckians Will Nominate Him For Governor Next Tuesday.

The Man Who Knows the People and Knows Their Needs.

Will Prove a Safe and Conservative Executive and Leader.

DON'T FORGET HIM WHEN YOU VOTE

The primary that is to be held throughout Kentucky next Tuesday is equally as important as the election for the reason that on that day men will be named for all the State offices. That day we will decide who will be our next Governor, and as this is the race that interests the people most directly it is the one they should keep their eyes upon. Judge Samuel W. Hager, the candidate we favor, is a gentleman to the manner born, and a truer and better Democrat does not live. He has had a wide experience and has proved true blue. More than this his sympathies are with the great common people and he is always ready to battle in their cause. He knows the people and knows their needs, ever in the front ranks for when their cause is attacked he never dallies but takes a stand and fights from the shoulder and in the open. One of Judge Hager's strongest and most admirable traits is his early conviction which he will defend to the last. He never waits to see the turn of the popular wave before he makes up his mind and for this reason you can always place him. Few men have this characteristic, the marked degree, that he has, a sincerity of purpose, fine judgment and an unflinching courage, big and the highest integrity and a thriving industry, make him a brave and safe leader in any cause and his splendid talents have always been devoted to the cause of the common people, his election to the Governorship at this time, when men of his disposition are so badly needed, should receive a vote of the warmest and heartiest nature from the Democrats of the whole State. Judge Hager is in every way qualified to meet the many new problems that will come before the next State administration. The fact, which is now a common in nearly every home, that Congress no longer gives the interests of the masses, the toilers of this great land of ours, the consideration and the attention they are entitled to, brings the importance of the election of Governor and other State officers, the direct representatives of the people, nearer to the hearts of the citizens of this nation, and points out indirectly, if not directly, the necessity of selecting men who will fight for the people to occupy these positions.

While it is conceded that Judge Hager will be easily nominated in this race, we urge every Democrat to make it a matter of personal interest and of patriotism to go to the polls on that day and do his share in making his majority a record breaker.

COUNTY BOARD.

Arranging For Proper Observance of St. Patrick's Day.

The County Board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the regular monthly meeting decided that there should be a fitting observance of St. Patrick's day in this city on March 17 next. Messrs. John A. Murphy, County President, and Thomas D. Clines, William T. Meahan, D. J. Coleman and Joe Lenihan, representing the four divisions, were appointed a special committee to arrange for the celebration, and they at once secured Macauley's Theater. Meetings will be held and a programme mapped out that will insure an entertainment of a high order, and a detailed report will be submitted at the November meeting.

The Directory Committee reported that they had been somewhat delayed with their work, but that it would not be long until the book was issued. State President Butler attended the meeting, and in a short but timely address made a number of suggestions as how to increase the membership in Kentucky. The question of a new home that would front the order was not discussed, the delegates preferring to postpone action until later in the year.

JOHN CUDAHY HERE.

John Cudahy, the millionaire packer, who controls the Louisville Packing Company, was here this week looking after the improvements being made at the big plant on Story avenue. Mr. Cudahy is a believer in rigid inspection and will spend $200,000 on the Louisville plant, making it second to none in the country. As soon as the improvements are completed every department will be put in full operation, giving employment to hundreds of men.

ARREST THE LOAFERS.

Louisville has been long afflicted with a horde of loafers and idlers, who have been committing all sorts of crimes, and of late it has been unsafe for people to venture on the streets after dusk. The order of Mayor Barth and the Board of Safety to the police department to arrest every able-bodied white and black man without visible means of support found loitering on the streets or in barrel-houses is a good one, and if properly enforced will have a salutary effect. The number of robberies and assaults that have taken place recently gives cause for great alarm, and the police should see that the city is freed from the dangerous class. Under the vagrancy act these persons may be tried in the Police Court and sent to the work-house if found guilty. The people of the city should see that they get it. Arrest every loafer and suspicious character and present them before Judge McManis, who should inflict the heaviest possible penalty. Unless this is done the city will continue to be infested with thugs and thieves, who are a disgrace to property and persons.

SENATORSHIP.

The primary to be held next Monday the voters of Kentucky will determine who shall be their next member of the United States Senate. The leading candidate is the Hon. James B. McCreary, the present incumbent, who seeks a re-nomination and endorsement of his course in that august body. This has always been the custom in Kentucky, and it is hoped there will be no change in the time. Senator McCreary has a splendid record and no man in the State is better equipped for the office he seeks. All his life he has been conservative, a law-maker and executive, fearless and just between all men and always on the side of the people. He has just closed a vigorous campaign that was conducted on high grounds and without compromise, and everywhere he made a deep impression. The people of Kentucky recognize in him the man of the hour, and unless all signs fail they will give him the nomination by a great majority.

SCARCITY OF LABOR.

From several sections of the United States comes the cry of the American Manufacturers' Association that there is a dearth of laborers. Investigation develops the fact that the low standard of wages offered by the members of the association, has driven desirable employees to seek employment in more lucrative fields. The importation of foreigners is being considered. It may be well, says a well known labor writer, that those would-be destroyers of unions to keep in view the labor contract law, which forbids such notorious practices. It would also be well for the elements of the Immigration Bureau to keep their eyes toward the foreigners headed for points where the Pariahs are endeavoring to obtain cheap labor. If the association would refrain from practicing such reprehensible tactics as it employs and offer living wages, the members thereof would have no occasion to howl about the scarcity of men to work; they would then obtain all they desire; but a self-respecting citizen will not accept work in their shops if there is a crust to be laid honestly in other directions. The harvest will not go unimpaired if proper compensation is offered for the gathering thereof. The desire of the association to pauperize the intelligent American workman is responsible for its present plight.

STRONG APPEAL.

Many there are who may not understand the Irish Parliamentary fund and the necessity thereof, and this information can be best given them by quoting from the appeal issued by the National Trustees, the Most Rev. O'Donnell, Bishop of Raphoe; the Rev. E. Redmond, M. P., and Alderman O'Mara:

"The Irish people have once more numerous, powerful and united party in Parliament. The duty remains of enabling that party to efficiently fulfill its duty by giving a constant attendance in Parliament. The happier prospects before our country and the almost infinite possibilities created by the overthrow of the Unionist and Coercionist government, make the constant attendance of the whole Irish party in Parliament during next session of paramount importance. It is not too much to say that the whole future of our country depends upon how this duty is fulfilled. Its fulfillment, however, depends upon the country itself. It can not demand constant attendance from its members unless it provides the means necessary to make that attendance possible."

Commenting on the foregoing the Dundalk Democrat says the members of the Irish Parliamentary party are selected not for their worldly position or financial resources, but for their ability and patriotism. The country has the services of these men—they are for the most part men of outstanding abilities, which they could turn to better account so far as they themselves are concerned if they so desired. Since they have chosen to devote their abilities to the service of their country, it is the merest justice that the country should recompense them; and since all that the Irish members ask for is a sum sufficient to maintain them during their attendance at Westminster, it would be childish on the part of any Irishman to refuse his contribution to the fund—any, it would be foolish in the last degree, for if they don't retain the party at Westminster, they hand the destinies of the country over to those who have no interest in its welfare, and who will legislate for it and govern it without regard to the wishes of its people.

Seamus MacManus, of Donegal, Ireland, the famous poet and novelist has arrived for a lecture tour in the United States. He will speak on the following subjects: "Irish Wit and Humor," "Irish Fairy and Folk Lore," and "How is Old Ireland and How Does She Stand?" (a political discourse), and will also give readings from his own works. There has been talk of bringing him to this city, which we sincerely hope will be done.

Forty-two States and three Territories will hold elections next Tuesday. The present House of Representatives is composed of 250 Republicans and 136 Democrats. In twenty-two States Legislatures are to be chosen which will elect Senators. Fourteen of these are now represented by Republicans and eight by Democrats. Kentucky will elect eleven Congressmen, but no State officers.

The first duty of every Democrat in Louisville and Jefferson county is to see that Hon. Swagar Sherley gets the full Democratic vote next Tuesday, and a little more for good measure.

DECISION REACHED.

Rights of Catholic Church Bestowed on Spalding Coleman.

According to reports that were given wide publicity this week, the appeal of the relatives of the late Spalding Coleman to Archbishop Moeller, against the action of Bishop McCloskey in denying the right of Catholic burial to their dead relative, has been sustained. This decision of Archbishop Moeller seems satisfactory to all concerned, and the Catholics of this city, the people of the Dominican parish especially, are glad the controversy is ended.

Bishop McCloskey has the letter from Archbishop Moeller and will in all probability make known its contents through the columns of the Record. It is known, however, that a solemn mass of requiem will take place at St. Louis Bertrand's church, perhaps next week, and that the grave in which the body lies may be blessed.

This case was one of exceeding regret, and it is altogether likely that had the Bishop been in the city when the arrangements were being made the trouble would have been avoided. It has attracted attention all over the country because of the prominence of the parties at interest, and by many is looked upon as cause for congratulation among the Dominican priests, who are relieved of the imputation of having erred.

CRENSHAW AND SCALLY.

R. C. Crenshaw, candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Agricultural Commissioner, has associated with him our fellow-townsmen, Thomas Scally, a Democrat of unquestioned standing and one who is always found in the front rank and in the firing line when the party needs his services. Tom is the present efficient State Labor Inspector, and employers and employees will vote to continue him in the position. We bespeak for the two the solid support of the voters in this city on Inspector Scally's account. It should be a matter of gratification to all Democrats to assist in the nomination of Mr. Crenshaw, who is a man of fine character and by experience well qualified to fill the position he seeks.

ill of typhoid fever, is reported improving and his numerous friends will be glad to hear the good news.

Edward F. Toomey, who has been located in St. Louis and Belleville, Ill., for the past year, arrived home Wednesday, and says he is here to stay until he hears the blast of Gabriel's horn.

Joseph Burger and bride, who were married last week at St. William's rectory, have gone to housekeeping at 1601 West Oak street, where they are at home to their friends. Before their union the bride was Mrs. Minnie Ausbeck Whitcomb.

The many Louisville friends of John A. Brislan, one of the best known young men of Frankfort, who underwent a surgical operation last week, will be glad to learn that he continues to improve, and with no unforeseen setback may be removed today to his home on High street.

Miss Mary Houlihan and John Harper were married Wednesday afternoon at St. Louis Bertrand's church, Sixth and St. Catherine, the Rev. Father Flood performing the ceremony. Both are well known in the parish and a great number of friends were present to extend congratulations.

George B. Salender and his estimable wife, of Frankfort, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage Monday night with a reception to their many friends at the rooms of the Young Men's Democratic Club in that city. The worthy couple were the recipients of congratulations from many Louisville friends and others throughout the State.

Wednesday morning in All Saints' church at Taylorsville Miss Alice Mudd became the bride of Joseph J. Herrmann of this city, the marriage being solemnized with a mass by the Rev. Father Breitner, Thomas Mudd, brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Herrmann, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. The church was tastefully decorated with potted plants, ferns and palms, and notwithstanding the early hour many were present to witness the ceremony.

One of the most happy of the many Halloween parties Wednesday evening was that given to a number of her young girl friends by Miss Adele Schneiderman at her home, 1821 West Chestnut street. All kinds of games were played and the girls met with some comical surprises. Among the number present were Misses Cleophas Gates, Marie Dougherty, Josephine Ulrich, Marie Lawler, Mary Ella Maloney, Verity McEllan, Margaret Higgins and Mildred and Adele Schneiderman.

St. Augustine's church in Jeffersonville was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday morning, when Miss Ella Garrity, the lovely and popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Garrity, became the bride of Tim Kinney. The nuptial mass and marriage ceremony were solemnized by the Rev. Father O'Connell in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives of the happy young couple, who were the recipients of many hearty congratulations. The groom is a son of John Kinney and is one of the prominent young men of Jeffersonville.

In the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives the marriage of Miss Mary Kelly and Dennis Glenn was solemnized at the Cathedral Wednesday afternoon. After the ceremony there was a reception and supper at the home of the bride's parents, 1119 Maple street, and then the happy pair left for Providence, this State, where they will reside. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kelly and was a favorite in her social circle, where she will be missed. Mr. Glenn is a well known Illinois Central engineer, and his friends congratulated him upon capturing his handsome bride.

The engagement of Miss Eira Martine and Louis B. Dugan has been announced, the ceremony to take place at St. Louis Bertrand's church on Thanksgiving afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Martine is the pretty and talented daughter of Mrs. Martine of Oldham street, while Mr. Dugan is engaged in business at Seventh and Zane streets and is one of the best known young men in Catholic circles, and will be prominently remembered for his active participation in Catholic entertainments. Their many friends will be pleased to hear of their engagement and all wish them God-speed on the sea of matrimony.

One of the largest and most brilliant weddings ever witnessed in Holy Rosary church in Chicago was that of Miss Bridget E. Nolan and Moses E. Doyle, of New Albany, which was solemnized with a nuptial high mass. The church was thronged with friends of the young lady, who is one of its most popular members. Miss Katie Woodcock was bridesmaid and John P. Hopkins best man, and little Miss Mary and Loretta Casey acted as flower girls. Following the ceremony there was a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride. The happy couple are now in their new home on West Fifth street, New Albany, where they will make their permanent residence.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Katherine Tierney and Thomas E. Downey, which will be solemnized at St. Louis Bertrand's church on Wednesday afternoon, November 28, at 4 o'clock. The bride-elect is the sister of Mrs. William H. Conley and is the possessor of traits of character that make her a favorite among her wide circle of friends and admirers. Mr. Downey is one of the most popular men in the employ of the L. & N., and for years has been prominent in the Ancient Order of Illiberians and other Catholic societies. The worthy couple will carry with them into their new life the hopes of their many friends for a long journey of bliss and happiness.

FIRST TIME MADE.

President Roosevelt will next Thursday set sail from New York on the first journey ever made to a foreign land by a President of the United States. It will be the beginning of his trip to Panama to investigate personally the conditions and situation in the canal zone, and will cause his absence from Washington till the latter part of the month. Leaving this soil the President will break the traditions of the past, but everybody knows Teddy cares nothing for tradition.

WANT HIM BEAT.

The Sheet Metal Workers' Union has declared a holiday for next Tuesday, and the members will spend the day at the polls in an effort to defeat E. G. Hearrick, who is a candidate for School Trustee in the Forty-seventh Legislative district. Action to this effect was taken at a special meeting of the union, the reasons assigned therefor being that Hearrick was unfair to organized labor and uncompromisingly pledged to the "open shop."

CHEER FOR THE CHIEF.

Capt. Thomas Maher, Chief of Detectives, has almost entirely recovered from the attack of rheumatism and malaria for which he has been undergoing two weeks' treatment at St. Anthony's Hospital, and it is now thought he will be able to return to his post within the next few days. During his confinement his friends were continually calling. Bringing flowers and kind remembrances that were very cheering.

PAINFUL INJURIES.

Mrs. Kate McCloskey, living at 1001 Story avenue, was knocked down and painfully injured at Main and Wenzel streets Wednesday night by three horses. The animals escaped from a stable and were running wild when the accident happened. Patrolman Moran saw the accident and had Mrs. McCloskey taken to her home, where she received medical attention.

COLESBURG.

Rev. Father Roek, of the Cathedral, has been conducting a very successful and largely attended mission this week at St. Clare's church at Colesburg, this diocese, of which the Rev. John Tasoldi is the pastor. Father Roek is well known in that section and many came long distances to hear his able and convincing sermons.

FORTY HOURS.

The beautiful forty hours' devotions will begin tomorrow morning at the high mass at St. William's church, Thirteenth and Oak streets, and continue until Tuesday. Rev. Denis Murphy, the pastor, will be assisted by several of the local clergy, and the people of St. William's will be treated to some very eloquent sermons.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The Central Committee of the Catholic Knights of America will meet in regular monthly session next Friday night in St. Mary's Hall. It is expected that some very important business will be transacted, and in addition reports in which all are interested. President M. Glun requests the presence of all delegates.

Let your means overrun your wants, not your wants overrun your means.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

McComb City, Miss., will shortly form a council there.

Memphis Council has twenty applications on file for its coming initiation.

Memphis Council will confer the second and third degrees on a class of fifty at Jackson, Tenn., on Sunday, November 11.

The initiation that was planned for Thanksgiving day at Dayton, Ohio, has been postponed until February. The three degrees will then be given.

There will be an exemplification of the three degrees at Greensburg, Ind., on Sunday, November 18. Quite a number of Covington Knights will attend the ceremonies.

Dayton Council, one of the most progressive in Ohio, will throw open its handsomely furnished club rooms to the ladies of the household of the members every Thursday afternoon and evening.

Bluegrass Council will put on the three degrees at Lexington on Sunday, November 25. Cincinnati will exemplify the second. It is expected that a large attendance from Louisville will be present at the ceremonies.

The council at Piqua, Ohio, will hold its second initiation the latter part of this month. This initiation, following so closely the installation of the council, speaks for the healthy and energetic spirit of the Piqua Knights.

Louisville Council has secured the services of the Rev. Father Kelly for the annual lecture that will take place at Macaulay's. Father Kelly was for years chaplain at the West Point Military Academy and is a priest of distinction.

Auburn Council has thrown open its new quarters in the Columbus block to public inspection. Large and handsome as the rooms were before the fire, when they compared favorably with any in New York State, they are now declared to be larger and handsomer than ever before.

The Crescent City Knights are being congratulated for having upon their roster the first Archbishop applying for membership, the conferring of the three degrees upon his Grace the Most Rev. Archbishop Bleken making especially interesting the recent New Orleans initiation.

E. A. GULLION

Deserves Nomination As Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Mr. E. A. Gullion, of New Castle, Henry county, was in this city during the past week, calling on friends and acquaintances in the interest of his candidacy for Superintendent of Public Instruction at the Democratic primary. Mr. Gullion has been endorsed by every prominent school teacher and instructor in the State and is eminently fitted for the office to which he aspires, having served as Superintendent of the common schools of Carroll county for sixteen years, and has taught in the schools from the backwoods to the classes in our leading colleges.

Mr. Gullion has been a lifelong Democrat and his nomination by that party would be a tower of strength to that ticket in the general election. In the event of his election he pledges his time and talent for the success and betterment of every school in the State.

CHRISTMAS FANCY WORK.

Now is the time to get together patterns and materials for the fancy work which is to turn into Christmas gifts. The theater bag makes a charming little gift which may be adapted to old and young, as it is carried out in gray, white or black. It is embroidered in beads and spangles.

Use heavy silk or soft suede, and work in the dots with beads and the rest of the pattern in oblong and round spangles. The bag is made alike on both sides and has a fringe of beads added to it as a border.

With gray silk use steel beads and silver spangles; with black use jet and black spangles; or a dainty and beautiful gift may be made with white or yellow silk, come in yellow or gold beads and gold spangles.

Pretty bits of brocade and light weight bits of furniture tapestry also make lovely bags by following the woven pattern in cutting on the head-work, steel chain and clasp should be used for the gray, gilt for the yellow, and gun metal for the black.

FRIENDS.

Never judge a friend by his relatives but by his friends. One isn't responsible for his relatives. Be they good, bad or indifferent, they are thrust upon him, but friends are self chosen, and what they are so is the person.

gathering of members.The recent Suffolk county convention held at Boston was composed of 282 delegates representing sixty-five divisions. And the work of organizing others still goes on.New York Hibernians at the recent county convention held in Grand Army Hall at Colones adopted resolutions advising the study of Irish history in the public schools.Members of the St. Patrick's day committee are now ready to receive suggestions that will make for a grand celebration of the feast of Ireland's patron saint. This is the time to send them in.Division 11 of Utica has been holding some pleasant card parties at the homes of members, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the Irishman table at the fair for St.
Patrick's church in that city.At the last meeting of Division 2
of Albany it was decided to organize a ladies' auxiliary. Six candidates were initiated in full form and committees were appointed to arrange for a series of winter entertainments.Next month the annual election of division officers will take place. The order here has always had good men
at its head, and care should be exercised in selecting successors for those who have become ineligible or will not serve longer.Division 4 of Duluth, Minn., has taken up the study of Irish history in a practical way. Chapters of Nolan's history are read and discussed at the regular meetings, and it is predicted that the division is certain to prosper as a result of this move.For some months past there has not been an initiation in this city, but this week we learn that the degree
team is preparing to put on the work in the near future. There is not a division here but that has candidates awaiting the honors.The Maryland State Board has appointed Rev. Joseph Foley, of St.
Paul's church, State Chaplain, to succeed the late Rev. Peter Manning.
Father Foley is an active member of Division 9 of Baltimore, and has long been identified with the work of the organization.

AMUSEMENTS.

There will be things doing at the Masonic hall of next week. Ray Ward is headed for Louisville and is going to keep open house there. Ward is a favorite here, everywhere, and it is said he brings the brightest and best play of his career this time.In the present day it is the play of heart interest that appeals to the masses and commands the patronage.
Such a play is "Way Down East," which will be the bill all of next week at Macauley's. The popularity of this play has grown greater with each season, and it may be sure of a cordial welcome.Vandeville patrons are promised something out of the ordinary next week at the Hopkins. A carefully selected bill has been prepared, for the votaries of "the continuous," and the prediction is made by the management that it will be declared the best bill of the season. Old and new friends will be found in the number.The Buckingham management is keeping up its reputation for furnishing the patrons with strictly all star vandeilles. Next week's bill is an exception, in that it is the strongest yet here this season. The Cherry Blossoms Company will present the "Serenade Shower," a most spectacular and sensational novelty, and two clever musical comedies, "Wrong
Count Tolson" and "Look Out
Below," with laughs close together.

MONKS NOT FRIARS.

"What is the difference between a monk and a friar?" All friars are monks, but all monks are not friars, except in the etymological sense of the word friar. Friar is an English word derived from the Norman "frere," which means "brother." But usage has made the term friar applicable solely to certain mendicant or begging orders. There are four orders of friars: Franciscans, or friars minor; Carmelites, or friars major; Carmelites and Augustians. The first are known as gray friars, the second as preaching friars, the third as white friars, and the fourth as Austin friars. But each member of these orders is also called a monk, and his home is popularly called a monastery. The members of religious congregations as Jesuits, Passionists, Paulists, Re-
demptorists, etc., are called monks,
more often regulars, but never friars.
Members of the orders or congregations or societies who are not in orders are called brothers, but custom

CLEMENCEAU.

French Premier an Atheist

and Stern Opposer of the Church.

Georges Benjamin Clemenceau, who has been chosen new French Premier, with power to form a new Cabinet, has been in public life several years and has been called the Warwick of French politics. He is sixty-five years old, was educated as a physician, and is an expert in skin diseases. Upon the accession of Napoleon III, he was compelled to leave France, and coming to America he taught French in a girls' school at Greenwich, Conn.,
and within a very short time married
Miss Mary Plummer, one of his pupils.
Subsequently they were divorced, and Mme. Clemenceau died a few years ago. Clemenceau has been a member of several Cabinets. He is an atheist and stern in his opposition to the Roman Catholic church. At one time he upheld Boulenger and he was one of the friends of Dreyfus. W.T. Stead says Clemenceau "is a Jacobin reincarnated in the skin of an opportunist." He will now have an opportunity to display any qualities of leadership of which he may be possessed. Heretofore he has been recognized for his powers and qualifications as an opponent of any government in power.One time-saving housekeeper paint-pending investigation for being under the influence of drink while on duty and attempting to arrest

men on the charge of drunkenness
who were duly sober.The Belfast National Registration Union has adopted resolutions calling the attention of the Chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party to the conduct of rent agents in Belfast,
who have caused the disfranchisement of voters in West Belfast.A very successful meeting was held in Ardee for the purpose of starting a branch of the Gaelic League. Large numbers of townspeople and many others from the surrounding districts attended the meeting, which was presided over by the Rev. P.
Matthews.The death of Mrs. Henry Brangan, after a protracted illness, occasioned deep sorrow among the youth of Castleblenny. She was a beloved teacher in the National schools. The funeral at St. Mary's was attended by the general public and school children in processional order.The celebration of Arbor week will be observed in Ireland this year on the last three days of October and the first three in November. Up to the time of the "Union" there was a society in Dublin subsidized by grants from the Irish Parliament, which planted about 4,000,000 trees per annum. With the destruction of the Irish Parliament this useful society passed out of existence.We regret to have to announce the death of Rev. James Griffin, the popular and beloved administrator of Newry, which resulted from an attack of typhoid fever. Since his ordination twenty-seven years ago his administrations have been confined to the parish of Newry. His labors in the renovation of the Cathedral were untiring, and it is a source of regret to his parishioners that he did not live to see its completion.Patrick Thornton, a farmer of Kil-kerky, aged about fifty years, met his death under shocking circumstances in Dundalk. With his son
he was delivering grain in the city,
and for some unaccountable reason
his horse took fright and ran away.
Every effort was made to stop the horse, but through its wild plunges Thornton was knocked down and the wheel of the cart passed over his body, fatally injuring him.

HINTS ON STYLE.

The tailored coat, striking everywhere from the hips to the bottom of the skirt, is just now much exploited.For the woman who wants something substantial and still avoids black, the pastel shades of broad-cloths are unsurpassed.Gavus cut with the elaborated waist line—the distinctive feature of the empire dress—will prevail as a popular style this winter.Smart coat gowns are made with long sleeves, but as the shorter lengths are far more elegant they will continue during the winter.Paradoxical though this may appear, the woman who wants black will find broadcloth the only choice which looks and seems youthful.The winter will be distinctly "tartan," for the Scotch plaid so much seen in dress materials and trimmings is now introduced into wings and quilts and even ruses.One of the most attractive things seen in light cloth suits is the laying of heavy lace over the sleeves.
Hoods once more are fashionable,
and are made in light, airy kinds as well as in the substantial fabrics.Spread several thicknesses of newspaper under the pall of water used for cleaning purposes and save the carpet, floor, table, or whatever it rests upon.

THE "WHY" OF IT.

In all piano players, the "pneumatics" are the vital part of the entire mechanism. In all piano players, EXCEPT THE CECILIAN these "pneumatics" are made of wood and leather and that's where the trouble comes in. Ever get your shoes wet and have them dry hard and stiff? Leather will do that in damp weather, for it absorbs the moisture. Ever had a door or window stick in your house? It's because the wood swells during the damp weather. That's the trouble with the wood and leather "pneumatics." They are affected by the constant changes in the weather and can't do the work properly.

In the Cecilian Piano Player mechanism the "pneumatics" and the wind chest are made of metal—brass, steel and phosphor bronze—weather doesn't affect them in any way. They don't swell, neither do they shrink, and that's why they are always in perfect working order.

TRINITY COUNCIL.

Entertains Supreme Vice-President Kehoe and the Joint Committee.

Trinity Council had a very enthusiastic meeting Monday night and entertained John Kehoe, of New York, Supreme First Vice President of the Supreme Men's Institute, and Messrs. John Crotty, Harry Colgan, Joe Lenthman, Robert Burke and Charles Cate, representing the local Joint Committee of the order. Vice President Kehoe delivered a carefully prepared address on Commodore Jack Barry, father of the American navy, and the other visitors addressed the members on their duty to their officers and organization.

Joseph Bell was reported sick with appendicitis and in a critical condition at St. Anthony's Hospital. The committee having the skating rink reported that they had contracted for a new oak floor for the large hall, which would soon be opened with the dance for the members and their friends, and thereafter they would conduct there a skating rink during the balance of the season. An invitation was accepted to the euchre and dance to be given by the Young Ladies' Auxiliary at Fisher's Hall on Thursday, November 15, and President Martin named the following gentlemen to assist them: Messrs. Luckett, Guebel, Dawson, Zirnhehl, Cummin and Garvey.

THE "UNLOADED" GUN.

Thirteen-Year-Old Arthur Healey Victim of Accidental Shooting.

While playing with a gun last Sunday afternoon Jesse Lee, fifteen years of age, shot and killed Arthur Healey, two years his junior. The ball entered the right groin and the victim died to death in a few minutes despite every effort to save his life. Lee and Healey and several other boys were spending the afternoon at the home of Albert Greenaway, who lives on a small farm near the New Albany end of the Kentucky and Indiana bridge. It was while the boys were playing in a room in the house that young Lee picked up an old rifle that he thought was unloaded and fired the fatal shot. The killing was purely accidental and no one was more distressed over the terrible consequences than Lee, who felt confident the gun was not loaded. Healey is the son of William H. Healey, who lives at 53 Margin street, and Lee lives with his mother, Mrs. Bessie Lee, 34 East Eighteenth street. The case is but another of the many warnings against the criminal carelessness of having loaded weapons within the reach of children, who have no realization of their danger. The press and pulpit are constantly calling attention to deaths that result from the supposedly "unloaded" pistol and gun but without avail. A measure of punishment should be provided for such carelessness, which might well be placed next in the category of carrying concealed deadly weapons.

TREATED ROYALLY.

The Trinity Council bowling team defeated the St. Catherine Council team, of New Haven, last Saturday evening after three exciting games, being the deciding series between the two. Those who were in the Trinity party were Albert F. Martin, Frank P. Burke, John X. Kibberger, Dennis J. Gleeson, Ben Schneider, John J. Barry, John Sandmann and Eugene Ford. The New Haven team was composed of Edward Dawson, Rob Greenwell, M. Bowling, Jasper Johnson and Prof. Ed. Coomes, and if they lost bowling they acquitted themselves more creditably in the role of entertainers, assisted by Plunkett Dawson and Joe G. and John J. Barry, of New Haven. A fitting testimonial to the elaborate supper served was the fact that Mr. Gleeson did such justice to it that he became ill, and he is a temperance advocate too.

One delegation has been instructed to bring an important question before the body, and its discussion should be heard by all the delegates.

SISTERS' BAZAR.

Catholics All Over the City Are Working For Its Success.

Catholics all over the city are now working hard for the success of the bazar to be given this month at Liederkranz Hall for the benefit of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd on Eighth street. Meetings have been held in nearly all the parishes and the reports brought to the weekly general meeting at St. Francis' Hall at the Cathedral are most encouraging. The Sisters of the Good Shepherd have for years been doing a great work of mercy in Louisville, and all without any compensation whatever. During the past few years they have been overtaxed in caring for the unfortunate, and it is now absolutely necessary that they be given some material assistance. All our societies are becoming interested and when the doors open they will be found taking active part. The next meeting will be held Monday night at St. Francis' Hall, when the various committees that have been appointed will submit reports.

MORE GOOD WORK.

Mackin Council Decides Upon Reception and Another Initiation.

After the hard work of the preceding week only a small attendance was looked for Tuesday night at the meeting of Mackin Council, but the fifty members present were kept busy for two hours. Thirteen applications were filed, eight candidates were elected and four reported favorably, making another large class awaiting the initiation to be held on Tuesday, November 15. Communications were read from the council in the Hawaiian Islands and from Jacob Schatz, the florist. M. J. Brennan, who has been ill for several weeks, was reported improving, and announcement was made that the Joint Committee would visit Mackin next Tuesday night. Treasurer Thomas Clines presented the Council $1,200, which was but half of what would be realized from the fall festival. Chairman Shelby stated that the anniversary committee prize would be awarded at the meeting next week and that all bills were being paid on presentation. Messrs. Louis Kieffer, Tom Filburn and Will Burke were authorized to offer the services of the council for the Sisters' bazar. The educational feature will not be resumed until after the initiation. In appreciation of the success achieved by the fall festival committee, the officers, contestants and others who rendered such valuable assistance last week, it was decided to tender them a reception, for which arrangements will soon be made. In this Mackin's members exhibit the spirit that marks all their undertakings and brings to them so many faithful workers.

ALMOST FATAL.

Miss Clarissa Cain, a well known young lady of the West End, had a narrow escape from death by poisoning Monday afternoon. She had been out for a walk, and upon returning to her home at 1824 Portland avenue complained of feeling ill. Her mother gave her some medicine, not knowing it was tincture of iodine. Soon Miss Cain was suffering great pain and Dr. J. D. Taylor was summoned. He realized the serious condition of his patient, and it was not until after an hour's hard work that she was out of danger. Mrs. Cain was nearly prostrated over her mistake, which was due to the fact that the two bottles, neither one labeled, were side by side and similar in appearance.

ALL SAINTS' DAY.

There was a large attendance at the masses in all the churches in the city Thursday, and also on Friday, All Souls' day. The observance of the latter in the Catholic cemeteries will occur tomorrow, when thousands will visit and pray at the graves of their departed dead.
